

GW Career Services for Graduate Students

The George Washington University's investment in the career and professional development of graduate students is demonstrated by the extensive career services and professional networks available through the Center for Career Services and our school-based career centers.

GW's career services departments are here to help you find the information and support you need to translate your world-class academic and co-curricular experiences at GW in to a lifetime of productive and engaged citizenship.

Services that are available to all GW students through the main Center for Career Services include:

- Handshake, the university-wide career management system with thousands of internships and job postings. Sign into Handshake using your GW netID and create your profile to get started: <https://gwu.joinhandshake.com/>
- Events and programs, including university-wide career and internship fairs, specialized industry career fairs, employer information sessions, and career workshops
- Online resources including Leadership Directories, Washington Business Journal, Brad Traverse Jobs, Passport Career and more
- Student employment hiring and payroll information and assistance, including federal work study. Note: graduate assistantships/fellowships are managed through the Office of Graduate Student Assistantship and Fellowships - <https://www2.gwu.edu/~fellows/>

Center for Career Services - provides individualized career services and resources for graduate students in the following academic units

- Columbian College of Arts and Sciences - including Corcoran School of the Arts & Design and School of Media & Public Affairs
